Diarrhoea is an important cause of morbidity and mortality worldwide, in spite of the advances in health technology, improved management, and increased use of oral rehydration solutions in recent decades, persisting as a major cause of death in children under five years of age. Diarrhoea is an important cause of morbidity and mortality worldwide, in spite of the advances in health technology, improved management, and increased use of oral rehydration solutions in recent decades, persisting as a major cause of death in children under five years of age. Diarrhoea is an important cause of morbidity and mortality worldwide, in spite of the advances in health technology, improved management, and increased use of oral rehydration solutions in recent decades, persisting as a major cause of death in children under five years of age. Diarrhoea is an important cause of morbidity and mortality worldwide, in spite of the advances in health technology, improved management, and increased use of oral rehydration solutions in recent decades, persisting as a major cause of death in children under five years of age. Diarrhoea is an important cause of morbidity and mortality worldwide, in spite of the advances in health technology, improved management, and increased use of oral rehydration solutions in recent decades, persisting as a major cause of death in children under five years of age.