

FACING COVID-19 AT WORK

As widely covered by domestic and international media, our Country is presently facing a serious challenge related to the coronavirus. Our minds go to the many who are suffering for whatever reason.

At VitroScreen we are taking this challenge extremely seriously: firstly in the interest of our employees and their families but also in the respect of all our stakeholders and the community we live and work in.

Not only have we implemented all guidelines received by the authorities, but we have also further strengthened all possible measures to keep our premises safe.

Within these measures a pivotal role is played by an innovative system "Air purifier Aircell 70" that are proving extremely performing in air cleaning management and the reduction of particulates, gases, bacteria and viruses within our offices and laboratories.

We are therefore able to continue to work as planned in a safe environment, fully keeping the commitments to our customers worldwide.

As VitroScreen's CEO I would like to thank all our customers, providers and friends who have vouched us their sympathy in this challenging period.
